

School canteen 'check-in'

Many canteens in WA government schools are operated by the parent body i.e. the Parents and Citizens Association (P&C); non-government school canteens are generally run by the school or parent body (P&F). Either way, reviewing canteen operations, procedures and checking-in with staff is really important. We recommend this formal review is conducted annually.

Step 1: Consultation (who should be involved)

- Employers (e.g. P&C Executive Committee, school, board) and/or Canteen Committee
- Canteen Supervisor; and other staff e.g. Canteen Assistant
- Potentially canteen volunteers (depending on what is being reviewed)

Step 2: Consider how the canteen operates (what will be reviewed)

- Compliance with the Department of Education's Healthy Food and Drink policy (see page 2)
- Financial management, record keeping, premises and equipment
- Canteen operations and procedures e.g. ordering system, suppliers, marketing
- Employee performance, satisfaction and job description. This should be seen as a positive experience where the employer creates a safe space; provides constructive feedback; staff have an opportunity to raise issues; and share stories; and all details are kept confidential

Step 3: Schedule a meeting (when should this be done)

- Consider the most appropriate time of the year e.g. end of Term 1; after the P&C AGM
- If conducted after hours, will canteen staff be paid for their time? During hours, will relief staff/volunteers be available to work in the canteen?
- Consider reporting process post review e.g. if the Canteen Supervisor sets a goal to complete (i.e. training), how will they inform the employer this has been done? e.g. send certificate of completion within 1-month of meeting

Step 4: Make a plan (how will changes be implemented)

- If further reviews are required or changes need to be implemented consider who is responsible to action this and by when
- Communicate any changes and positive stories to the school community
- Thank all parties for participating and assisting to review the canteen
